Why Giraffe has a Long Neck

Note to parents and carers

Read it yourself is a series of modern stories, favourite characters and traditional tales written in a simple way for children who are learning to read. The books can be read independently or as part of a guided reading session.

Each book is carefully structured to include many high-frequency words vital for first reading. The sentences on each page are supported closely by pictures to help with understanding, and to offer lively details to talk about.

The books are graded into four levels that progressively introduce wider vocabulary and longer stories as a reader's ability and confidence grows.

Ideas for use

- Begin by looking through the book and talking about the pictures. Has your child heard this story before?
- Help your child with any words he does not know, either by helping him to sound them out or supplying them yourself.
- Developing readers can be concentrating so hard on the words that they sometimes don't fully grasp the meaning of what they're reading.

Answering the puzzle questions on pages 30 and 31 will help with understanding.

Giraffe

There was a time when Giraffe did not have a long neck or long legs.

There was also a time when Giraffe had an upset tummy.

“Honey will help your upset tummy!” the animals said.

There was some honey in the tree. So Giraffe popped her head in the tree.

“Slurp! I love honey!” Giraffe said.

Then Giraffe said,
“I will pull my head
out of the tree now.
Oh help! I am stuck!”

“I can’t get my head out,”
Giraffe said. “I am stuck!”

Night time came.

“Slurp. I love honey,”
Giraffe said.

Day time came.

“Giraffe’s head is stuck in that tree,” the animals said.

“We must pull her out.”

“Slurp. Slurp.” Giraffe said.

So the animals pulled Giraffe's legs.

“You must not get upset. We will get your head out,”
the animals said.

A long time went by.

“Now we will also pull the tree!”

the animals said.

So all the animals pulled and pulled...

Then the animals said,
“Oh no! Look how long Giraffe’s neck has got!”

More days and nights went by. The tree got taller and taller.

“Look how long Giraffe’s neck has got now!” said
the animals.

“Giraffe, we can’t pull your head now. YOU must pull it,” the animals said. “Pull!” Giraffe’s head popped out.

“I did it! I am out of the tree!” said Giraffe.

And that is why
Giraffe has a long neck!
